On Oct. 26 the topic will be "Children: Approaches to Understanding," with these films scheduled: THURSDAY'S CHILDREN (deaf children learn lip reading); THE UMBRELLA (insecurity of a small boy artistically portrayed); THE QUIET ONE.

GHI Committee Suggests New Proxy Voting Procedures

by Al Skolnik

Proxy voting procedures for Greenbelt Homes, Inc. elections are scheduled for a revamping within the next few months. A preliminary report presented to the GHI board last Thursday by David Lange, chairman of the ad hoc committee on proxies, gave some insight into the committee's thinking on methods to minimize the mass solicitation of proxy votes.

Lange outlined one approach that is being favorably considered by the committee. Proxies would be printed as an official form and have registered numbers (under present procedures, the proxy can take any form and be made out on a scrap of paper). An individual wanting to assign his proxy to another member would request the form in person at the GHI office or by mail through submission of a signed letter.

Each proxy form given out would be accompanied by a letter of explanation advising members how their voting rights would be affected by assignment of a proxy. For example, Lange said, members would be advised that by assigning their proxy to another member, not only won't they be able to cast a ballot at the GHI elections, but they won't be able to vote on any matters that come up on the floor at the membership meeting which is held in conjunction with the election.

The proxy forms when completed would be returned to the GHI office a specified time before the election, just as under current procedure.

Three advantages were cited for the new approach. (1), mass solicitation of proxy votes would be made more difficult since each individual would have to be contacted twice - first, to send away for the proxy, and second, to complete the proxy (under present procedures, only the latter contact is necessary).

(2) each member would be alerted through the instructions that accompany the proxy form just how his rights would be affected by completion of the proxy, and this may encourage some individuals to exercise their voting rights themselves.

(3) any large-scale drive to get proxy votes would become a matter of early public record, since the GHI office would have a numerical count of the number of proxy forms given out.

The committee is now in the process of putting the finishing touches on its recommendations, which will go to legal counsel for final review. The ad hoc committee was created by the membership at the annual meeting last May. Members of the committee are George Adams, Mat Amberg, J. Walsh Barcus, Andrew Feeney, Bruce Bowman and Nat Shinderman.

GHI president Charles Schwan asked whether the new procedures would require a by-laws change. It seemed to him that they were not so far-reaching as to preclude the nominations and elections committee from adopting them under present by-laws. Lange replied that this was an item for the legal counsel. He said that the committee's preference seemed to be for a by-law change.

Needs a Plumber

A lively discussion regarding the plight of a GHI member building his own addition in 56 Crescent court took up the latter part of the meeting. The member had purchased his own heating equipment, but had difficulty finding a licensed plumber who would install the equipment. According to the member, plumbers are reluctant to install any equipment other than what they furnish themselves.

His efforts to use a non-licensed plumber were forestalled by GHI requirements that heating equipment be installed under the direction of a licensed plumber. GHI manager Roy Breashears explained that since the installation of additional heating equipment can affect the heating system for the entire court and since, in the end, GHI is called upon to make any amends for deficiencies in the installed equipment, it wants to be sure that the work is done in a competent fashion.

The member recognized this obligation, but complained that GHI had not given him adequate notice that he would need a licensed plumber. The matter was settled amicably for the moment by GHI making available to the member a list of plumbers who, it thought, would install the equipment.

Tid-bits

A request for more parking space in 36-Ridge court to accommodate two-car families and guests was tabled until further information was obtained on the costs involved and the extent to which court residents would be willing to pay for the paving. . . . the board decided to continue leasing the Center office on a month-to-month basis. . . . Prior to the meeting, the board was given a guided tour by management of the corporation property. . . . Residents of 22 Hillside and 1 and 3 Research will be polled on location of playground. . . . The corporation will pay for flu shots for its employees.

MY SWORD, PLEASE!

To the Editor:

We recently moved into Greenbelt and were under the impression that it was a secure community.

Last Tuesday evening we were visiting a neighbor and left the door unlocked. During our absence someone entered the house and removed a war trophy on the wall. This was a short sword in a scabbard which also contained a small knife. I would be willing to pay a reward for its return and would not prosecute.

We are certain that this theft was made by youngsters since other items of considerably greater value were not touched. The employment of 4 additional police officers is quite in order if house breaking is one form of receiving new residents. The next unauthorized nocturnal visit to our house will receive a very warm (buckshot) reception.

A GAY DAY AT THE FAIR

To the Editor:

I want to thank the Greenbelt Travel Club for a most delightful day at the fair, however, one day is all I could take as I am in the older age group - I would like another one day trip at another time. To me, the weather was perfect as it kept the crowds away - at least, the things I wanted to see had short lines that moved fast. It would take weeks to see it all so I knew I could only hit the high spots.

I took the glide a ride and the Swiss sky ride so as to get the spirit of the fair as a whole. I visited the Vatican Pavilion to see Pieta and spent some time at the exhibition at the Spanish Pavilion which was wonderful.

I got crab cakes at the Maryland Pavilion and I drank Irish Coffee at the Irish Pavilion. I saw the Abe Lincoln exhibition at the Illinois Pavilion. In fact, I thought the fair was gay and wonderful. Of course, it helps to have a nice companion and I did, Mrs. Grace Gilliland.

The Toastmasters Club, which provides training in public speaking, meets regularly on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 8 p.m. in the hospitality room of the Co-op store. The next regular meeting, on Oct. 13, will not be held because of the speech contest the following night. For further information, call Jim Wright, 474-4524.

POINT OF VIEW

by Dorothy Sucher

I called my well-informed friend Alice the other morning to ask her advice. "Alice," I said. "We're back. Where can I find a cleaning woman?"

"I have one," she said. "In fact, she's coming today." ("Good old Alice," I thought. "Well-organized as usual.") "How was your trip?"

"Fine," I replied. "But you know how it is when you've been away. I'd like to get someone to wash the windows and the walls. How's your girl?"

"A jewel." "That sounded promising. 'Is she careful?'"

"Oh, yes. Of course I put away all my breakables to be on the safe side."

"She's honest?"

"Well, I carry my purse around with me. I don't think it's right to put temptation in anyone's way."

"Doesn't drink?"

"It's always wise to lock up the liquor, don't you think?"

"I guess so," I said. "Does she have a free day?"

"Now wait a minute," said Alice. "You might be able to find someone to wash the windows, but what exactly do you mean by washing walls?"

"You know. Washing them when they're dirty."

Alice thought it over. "No," she said finally. "I couldn't ask my girl to do it. I'm afraid it might upset her."

"I don't see why. I'd do it myself, except that I'm still unpacking."

"Do you mean just a wipe here and a wipe there? Or real washing? You know, I've heard of some women who even like their ceilings washed."

"I wouldn't do that," I assured her. "Really, it's not such a tremendous job."

"Maybe not, but I don't like the sound of it. Girls today don't want to work for anyone who's too clean. Personally, I'm not too clean. But you must have heard about Mrs. S-?"

"I'm out of touch," I said. "What about her? Incidentally, she's a friend of mine."

"I'm sorry, I didn't realize. Well, just between you and me, she's been blacklisted."

"How awful! Why?"

"She's too clean. Don't tell anyone I told you."

"I hope you don't think I'm too clean."

"Well..."

"I'm not. Honestly, Alice. I'm a slob. My mother says so every time she visits me."

"That doesn't prove anything," she said skeptically. "Your mother is prejudiced."

"Come over today if you don't believe me. The place is a regular pigsty. I wouldn't lie to you, Alice."

Alice was mollified. "I'd like to help out. If only it wasn't walls! A girl today doesn't like the sound of that. You can't blame her."

"You certainly can't."

"Psychologically, it represents a threat."

"I couldn't agree with you more."

"Okay, I'll try. Mind you, I can't promise."

"Thanks, Alice. You're a real friend."

"Well, it's been nice chatting, but you'll have to excuse me now. I'm in the middle of cleaning."

"I thought your girl was coming today."

"That's right. I like to tidy up for a few hours before she gets here."

"I thought your girl was coming today."

"That's right. I like to tidy up for a few hours before she gets here."

"But why?"

"It creates a pleasanter atmosphere. You don't want a girl to feel defeated the minute she walks in the door."

"Definitely not."

"And this way, if she forgets to show up, the house doesn't look too bad."

"You're right. So long, Alice, and thanks a million."

I hung up the phone and got out the pails and the Windex.

Junior String Classes Open

Junior string classes for children in the third to the twelfth grades will be offered by the music department of the University of Maryland beginning October 17.

The purpose of the classes is to stimulate interest in the playing of violin, viola and cello; to make available class instruction in schools where the opportunity does not exist; to enrich already existing programs; and to help public school music teachers establish string classes in the school.

The program will be supervised by Dr. Joel H. Berman, assistant professor of violin and chamber music at the university. There will be four classes offered and students will be placed according to their proficiency in their instruments from beginning to advanced. Classes will meet on Saturday mornings.

Further information can be obtained by writing Junior String Classes, Dept. of Music, Univ. of Md. or by calling WARfield 7-3300, extension 555.

Community Capers

by Aloysius

Parties to the Beltway Plaza traffic light dispute appear indifferent to the need for immediate action to alleviate the dangerous traffic condition that exists at the Beltway Plaza. This writer, desiring action as soon as possible, telephoned on Sept. 18 to Sidney Brown, developer of Beltway Plaza to express his concern regarding the traffic light.

Brown agreed to the need for a traffic light, but reiterated his position that the State Roads Commission should install and maintain the light. He also referred to his letter in the News Review which pointed up some of the "headaches" he has had with governmental bodies. Mr. Brown, however, stated he was amenable to discussions with the city to resolve the impasse.

This writer informed city management regarding Mr. Brown's statements, and stated that a traffic light could be immediately forthcoming if the city would "strike while the iron is hot." He was told that the official position of the City was stated in the minutes of the last Council meeting (Sept. 14) and no action could be taken unless directed by council. The writer attempted to contact two members of council leaving messages relative to his discussion with Mr. Brown.

As of this writing there has been no action taken by any of the parties concerned to expedite a light being placed at Beltway Plaza. To all parties concerned: How about getting on the ball before an obituary in the News Review informs the populace of the first traffic death in the city of Greenbelt! LGL

Greenbelt Grab-bag

by Punchin' Judy

Is there anything this paper needs more desperately than an advice column? Well, never mind, here we go anyway.

Dear Punchin': I use the detergent that gets me out of the kitchen fast! The only trouble is that it is so fast that yesterday I sprained my sacroiliac. What can I do? Spiney

Dear Spiney: I suggest that you start with a very small quantity of detergent and work up gradually. If your back does not improve, switch to the detergent that promises an insurance policy in every dishpan.

Dear Punchin': My husband is jealous of the giant in my washer. Please help!

Frantic

Dear Frantic: Perhaps you have been weakening your ego with pale orange juice or beer without gusto. Maybe you'd better do the wash while he's busy getting the tiger hairs out of his tank.

Dear Punchin': That knight on the snow-white charger gets my clothes nice and clean but the horse is awfully hard on the flower beds. What do you suggest?

Sweet Pea

Dear Sweet Pea: Think of it not as losing some flowers but as gaining fertilizer.

Little League Banquet

Nearly 300 boys, parents and guests attended the Little League Annual Awards Banquet last Saturday night at the Firehouse. Recreation Director, Richard Stevenson, served as Master of Ceremonies.

Coach Jim Wells, and members of the Cardinals received the City Championship award. Coach Walter "Bud" Dean, and his team the Pepsi-Cola Athletics, copped the American League championship trophy.

Desk sets were awarded to former Little League presidents, Ray Hudson, "Bud" Dean, Lonnie Palmer and Bud Davis.

For the fourth time, Dean received the City Award, a plaque honoring a citizen who has made outstanding contributions to the youth of Greenbelt during the year.

Dinner was prepared and served by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad.

Greenbelt 4-H Goes To the County Fair

Over to the left of the grandstand, between the carnival rides and the bullpens, buildings 4 and 5 were beehives of activity last week at the Prince Georges County Fair. Displays and exhibits of clothing, baked goods, crafts, flowers, fruits and vegetables were a heartening sign of the energy and skill our young 4-H people have devoted to constructive pursuit this past year. The fair serves as a showcase for 4-H work, and the ribbons and prize money serve as stimuli to better and better work. 26 youngsters from Greenbelt were represented this year.

Demonstrations

Eight girls from Greenbelt gave demonstrations this year. From the Cloverbuds 4-H Club, Ruth Amberg won a blue ribbon demonstrating "Surprise Bag", Laura Simonson's "Super Dessert Souffle" received a blue, Linda Simonson - "Finish It Right!" (blue), Jenny Simonson - "Preserving Leaf Specimens" (blue), and Ellen Han-yok - "Cereal Topping" (red). From the Cloverettes Maggie Amberg - "Tossed Garden Salad", Barbara Geller - "Jiffy Beef Stroganoff", and Elise Geller - "Press As You Sew" won blue ribbons for their demonstrations.

Judging Contest

Something new was added to the schedule this year as the tables were turned on the girls and they were asked to do some judging of other peoples' work to help them learn what judges look for when their own work is judged. Two teams from Greenbelt entered - Ruth Amberg, Laura, and Linda Simonson of the Cloverbuds and Margaret Amberg, Barbara and Elise Geller of the Cloverettes. Both teams won blue ribbons.

Exhibit Awards

10 Cloverbud girls entered 104 exhibits and collected 8 purple ribbons or championships. Leading the Cloverbuds with the most entries and blue ribbons was Linda Simonson who won 11 blue ribbons and 2 purple for her Child Care scrap books and sponge cake. Laura Simonson won 8 blue ribbons and 1 purple for her cookies. Jenny Simonson - 9 blue and 2 purples for her gathered skirt and cinnamon rolls. Ellen Han-yok - 8 blue and 1 purple for her canned tomatoes. Ruth Amberg really hit the jackpot with 100% purple ribbons. (she entered a jar of plum jam). Kathy Labukas won 7 blue and 1 purple for her chocolate cake. Mary Virginia Haker fared quite nicely, bringing home one blue ribbon among her three entries. Cynthia Whittaker and Sharon Rosenteur also started their ribbon collections.

Little Women winners were: blue ribbons: Lois Bernstein - covered box; Holly Geller - brownies and peanut butter cookies; Ruth Kaplan - yellow cake and refrigerator cookies; Olga Penney - handkerchief case and cupcakes; Joanne Louk - decorated cup, yellow cake; Rachel Wagner-covered box; Janet Goldberg-covered box.

4 Leaf Clovers had six exhibitors. Donna Barbar won red ribbons for a stuffed toy and scarf; and a white for the sewing box; Regina Wilkinson red ribbons for her tote bag and tea cookies; Colleen Kinclius, a white ribbon for her tote bag; Susan Brown, red ribbons for her chocolate cake and tote bag; Eileen Karlander, blue for a coffee cake and red ribbons for a tote bag and embroidery; and Kathy Roland, a white ribbon for her tote bag.

Catholic University Theatre Schedules A Comedy Season

The Catholic University Theatre has scheduled a season of comedy for 1964-65 - the group's 27th year of presenting plays. The following productions are planned: The Lady's Not For Burning, by Christopher Fry; Shakespeare's As You Like It; Heartbreak House, by George Bernard Shaw; and Peer Gynt, by Henrik Ibsen. An original musical will end the season. Call LAWrence 9-6000, extension 568, for information regarding subscriptions.

Hospital Needs Volunteers

An appeal for volunteers has been issued by the Prince Georges General Hospital to serve in almost any area relating to patient care.

The need is especially acute with the opening of County schools and the return to regular classes of one-hundred Junior volunteers known more familiarly as the "Candy Strippers."

Mrs. Marlys Kreckow, volunteer director, states that the adult volunteer may serve in many capacities — from assisting at the information desk, lending typist skills in various departments or working directly with patients under the supervision of hospital nurses. Hours of service may extend from two hours to a half or full day session.

If you or your organization are interested in any form of volunteer service with the Prince Georges County Hospital, you are urged to call or write Mrs. Marlys Kreckow, Director, SP 3-3300, Ext. 443.

County Report Available

A continuing rate of growth now approximating 800 new residents per week and expanded County services to meet the increased demands are outlined in the third annual "Report to the People" being distributed in Prince Georges County this week. The report is available in all County buildings, libraries, police stations and other locations. In presenting the report to the Board of County Commissioners, Community Relations Director Del Malkie declared, "we have tried again this year to summarize not only the budget allocations to the various departments but to list also the basic responsibilities of these County departments and their major accomplishments during the past year."

The 52-page illustrated booklet contains a complete breakdown of the County budget, including federal and state aid to the various departments, as well as to the allocation of all tax funds. Again, this year, thousands of the reports will be utilized in County school classes on civics and local government.

In addition to the departmental reports, the publication includes a history of the County, a listing of major facilities located in Prince Georges and a directory of the officials and phone numbers of the 28 municipalities in the County.
